What is HackLondon?

HackLondon is the UK's first collaboratively-organised university hackathon and is co-hosted by UCLU TechSoc and KCLTech. Returning for Major League Hacking's EU Spring 2016 Season, the event will take place over 24 hours on the weekend 27-28 February 2016.

With over 200 hackers expected to attend, we aim to bring students and recent graduates interested in technology from all over Europe together to learn, build and share.

Major League Hacking (MLH) is the official student hackathon league that spans across the United States, Canada, Mexico and Europe.

Why should you sponsor HackLondon?

Sponsoring our hackathon will give you a priority reach to our technologically-skilled and enthusiastic audience, so our students will interact directly with your products, services (APIs) and mentors from your company.

Your company will be promoted via our social media and email channels; Overall reach includes more than 15,000 hackers and tech enthusiasts. In addition, our universities (University College London and King's College London) will be promoting this event to approximately 50,000 students.

HackLondon has also proved to be one of the most highly-anticipated student-run hackathons of the year. Last year, each batch of tickets sold out at a rate of one ticket every two seconds!

Press coverage of the event is highly likely, KCL Tech's HackKings event in 2014 was covered by the BBC.

Sponsors on our higher tiers will also receive an exclusive opportunity to network and meet with other HackLondon mentors, judges, and volunteers.
